

THE PARADE MAGAZINE

THE WASHINGTON POST

10 June 1979

Article appeared on page 2

Walter Scott's Personality Parade

Cyrus Vance

Harold Brown

Bert Lance

Stansfield Turner

Q. Jimmy Carter has made hundreds of appointments in his Administration. Thus far, whom would you choose as his two best and two worst appointments?—E.L. McIntyre, Dayton, Ohio.

A. Two of his best appointments: Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Secretary of Defense Harold Brown. Two of his worst: Bert Lance as director of the Office of Management and Budget and Adm. Stansfield Turner as director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

* * * * *

Q. Who is the CIA station chief in London? I know our intelligence man there used to be Cord Meyer. Who took his place?—F.E. Carbondale, Ill.

A. Public exposure of CIA agents overseas generates considerable danger for these men and in many cases can limit their effectiveness. Sorry, but you must seek elsewhere for such information.